then he would approach a traveler and inquire anxiously, "Want a boy, sir?" But no one seemed to want a boy. They would glance down quizzically at him, and tell him he'd better run home.

Poor little fellow, he held out pretty well until along about night when he began to get very tired, and a look of discouragement crept into his great blue eyes. Dear me, I thought to myself, I wish somebody did want a boy, for it seemed just as if some mother ought to take him in her arms and rock him to sleep.

By-and-by an old farmer, in a shabby coat and slouched hat, came in and sat down to wait for the train.

"Don't you want a boy, sir" said the baby voice, so plaintively, "I've looked most everywhere to-day, but nobody don't want none. I'd do awful good." "What!" exclaimed the farmer in surprise; "you little shaver, you. Where's "I hain't got none. I runned away from the place where I did live."

"Runaway! What for?"

"Cause," and the tears commenced to roll down his cheeks, "I was used awful. She beat me for something I never did do-beat me till the bleed comed, and runned and runned Oh,

"Did she find out you didn't take it?" "Yes, When uncle come home she telled him how wicked I'd been an he telled her it wa'nt no sich thing-that he took the money hisself. He come right up where I was, an' when he seed the bleed running he felt awful. He jest let me out of that place, he did. but I couldn't get over it, no how, an' when they all got asleep 1 climbed out the window and runned away in the cars ever so far. I won't never go back -I d be dead first!

"Waal, wast! exclaimed the old farmer, "that was mean. She was an old vixen, that anut of yours. I'd like to have the fixing of her! What do you think of doing?"

"I am trying to get a place to work. 'How old be you?" "Goin' on seven."

AN OBTUSE MAN.

She was a stylish young lady about 18 years old, and to accommodate a friend she took the baby out for an airing. She was whocling it up and down the walk, when an oldish man, very deat, came along and inquired for a certean, came supposed to live on that street. She nearly yelled her head off trying to answer him, and he looked around, caught sight of the baby, and

"Nice child, that. I suppose you feel proud of him?" "It isn't mine!" she yelled at him.
"Boy, ch! Well, he looks just like

"It isn't mine!" she yelled again, but he nodded his head and continued: "Twins, ch! Where's the other one?"

Dospairing of making him understand by word of mouth, she pointed to the baby, at herself, and then shook her

"Yes—yes, I see t'other twin in the house. Their father is fond of them,

She turned the cab and hurried the other way, but he followed and asked: "I'm they kick round much nights?" "I tell you 'taint mine!" she shouted, looking very red in the face.

"I think you're wrong there," he answered. "Children brought up on the bottle are apt to pine and die." She started on a run for the gate, but before she opened it he came up,

"Have to spank 'em once in a while, киррозе?"

She made about twenty gestures in half a minute, and he helped the cab through the gate and said "Our children were all twins, and I'll send my wife down to give you some advice. You see—"

But she picked up a flower-pot and flung it at him. He jumped back, and as she entered the house, he called

GODLINESS AND BALDNESS.

It has been noted (and, it cannot be denied, with a great deal of truth) that godliness and bakiness go over the earth hand in hand. Sitting in a church gallery and looking down over the congregation, the number of smooth, bald heads to be seen is overpowering. This is noticeable among every denomination except the Quakers, who, in the first place, have no godliness in their churches, and who keep their hats on in meeting. The same thing, though, must be said of the theaters. Every fourth male head is a bald one. If it is not already quite white and bare, a little more time will make it so. And, after all, some people prefer a perfectly bald hoad to a fiery red one. A young clargyman was once ruined in his profession by a bright red head, although his own hair was as black as ink. In the midst of a solemn sermon on remembering the of a solomn sermon on remembering the Sabbath day he looked up at the gal-lery and burst into a roar of laughter. The congregation, of course, looked round, and saw a youngster in the secand row of scats holding his open hands over a burning red head before him, and then rubbing his hands together as if

OFF THE TRACK. The Democratic County Central Committee met on Saturday, and among other business accepted the declination of Z. T. Hundley as a candidate for representative. The reason given by Mr. Hundley for his action in withdrawing from the ticket was the fact that he had temporarily resided in Bloomington during the first part of the year 1877, and while there had good of the country. No patriotic man voted at a local election, thereby making himself ineligible to a scat in the legislature from this district, the constitution prescribing that in order to be eligible to a scat in the House the vide Republicans are. member must have resided for two years next proceding the election within the territory contained in the district. This is simply a confession upon the part of Mr. Hundley and the Democratic committee that they do not expect their party to have a majority in the next House, for such a triffing matter as in- it is plain to be seen that they are wileligibility has not heretotore been considered an insurmountable objection by the Democrate when they were in power, and the ineligible individual belonged to their party. Only as recently as 1875, when the Haines legislature of will but rally their strength. With odorous memory was in session, the question was raised of the ineligibility the business of Republicans everywhere of a Democratic member from Sangamon, who had not only lived outside of his district within two years, but in another state. The House was in the hands of the Democrats, and the carpet bagger was not molested. During the leading and very intelligent manufacsame session there was also a little quiet talk about the eligibility of one of the members from this district, it being claimed that he had not resided in the state for five years, as prescribed diately. And then," he continued, "the by the constitution, but the Democratic majority in the House did not see at to raise the question of eligibility, and it the expiration of the Bankrupt law, the REPUBLICANS. Reasons why Themisbank support Their Party.

The question which every despected Republican should put to himself before he commits himself against the party is, Whether it is in any way possible that he can secure better results by voting with some other party? If he will review all the elements in this query we are acticated that his answer | Harrible Sufferings Among the will be in the negative, and that he will be compelled to admit that not only can he not hope to better himself, but further that he cannot do so well. The Republican party is not all that any of us would like; many of its minor acts. are opposed to our ideas of right and expediency, and we frequently wish that some of its leaders were different, but with all this there is no mistaking the fact that the worst of Republicanism is much superior to the best of Democracy. There is nothing which any Rapublican can complain of that will be righted, or even bettered, by the success of the Democrats or the Nationals, while there are many things of much more importance that will be irretrievably injured by the success of those parties.-The road to improvement in any partieular is through the Republican organisation. It is the only one which has the capacity or inclination to effect reforms. Attempts at such by other parties are simply thinly disguised schemes of corruption. The Republican who loves his country and carnestly desires her welfhre, has no choice but to cling to that party with whose administration is associated the most brilliant epoch in our history; whose work is yet far from being done, and which has in its heart and brain more potentialities of good for the country in the future than can possibly be embraced in any or all the organizations opposed to it. To build up and support the Republican party is to do the most effective work for the can in justice to himself and his convic tions permit himself to be driven off from the grand purpose by some disaffection upon a question of minor importance, as all questions which now di-

MEMPHIS, TENN., Aug. 31.—As each day passes the work of the King of Terrors becomes more and more appalling. The close of the third week since the malady began numbers the victims at almost 500, and yet there are nearly 5,000 souls in the city. To day's death list is as heavy as any preceding one .-The number of new cases are fewer because there is a less material, and because many physicians will not make reports. H. Forty due to night from Shreveport and Cincinnati will give the Howards a surplus for the first time. The latter have been on duty for twenty-six days, and their death list reaches 296 this evening. A cutter of Nicholl, the tailor, after being con-valescent twenty-three days, took a relapse from over-exertion, and died the same night. At an informal meeting of the most prominent physicians held this morning, these general directions were given: Remain in bed ten days, in doors fifteen days afterward, and starve during the whole period. This, they say, should be practiced in every locality where fever appears. The disease is spreading into nearly every locality, and now rages in the Third District, heretofore exempt. The increase among the better classes in one day has been truly alarming, and it is no exaggeration to say that families who escape are exceptions. Dr. A. W. Smythe says no visitation has occurred in the history of the country, and will not occur again in a century. The deaths in August 1868, were 1229, and 1,003 in 1878. In the evening the President and Mrs. Hayes will give a general reception at the Grand Pacific, and on Wednesday morning will leave for St. Paul. Senator Blaine arrived here last night, en route for Minneapolis, and this evening was met by a Committee of citisons of Wisconsin and Minnesota with whom he took a special car to-night for St. Paul. He is to deliver the address at the Minnenpolis Fair, Tuesday.

St. PAUL, MINN., Sept. 1.-The Minnesota State Fair opens in this city o-morrow. President Hayes will visit the fair on Thursday, on his trip to the Red River Valley. Senator Blaine will deliver an address Tuesday. The great attraction of the exposition is the races of the western circuit, in which Rarus, Smuggler, Gov. Sprague and other famous trotters will compete, Rarus trotting against time on Friday. There is also a cup race for running horses, in which the famous California mare Mollie McCarthy will take part.

Her royal highness Princess Victoria, eldest daughter of the Grand Duchess of Hesse, has published a translation in German of a sermon to children, preached in Westminster Abbey by the Rev. T. Teignmouth Shore, honorable chaplain to the Queen. The work, which is published in Darmstadt for a charitable alject, does the greatest credit to the royal and youthful translator.

Tun International Prison Reform Congress, now in session at Stockholm, Sweden, is one that should and will re ceive attention from the civilized world. The alerming nature and number of crimes have attracted thoughtful consideration in every nation. How crime can be shocked, and the nature of the punishment to that end, will be considcred by men who have studied the questions most thoroughly. The representative at large for the United States is Dr. R. C. Wines. Several States will be represented by delegates. The fixedish Government, a year age, invited the different nations to take part in such a congress. The mismanagement of prisone, even in the most civilized portions of the globe, calls loudly for reform and we trust the action of the congress will be shaped into practical use for the betterment of humanity. There are white or black, are worked fifteen to five new cases among the negroes at the Chamberlain house, only one white man remaining, and that is Bill Riding, the telegraph operator. Jake, the Italian stewart, who heretofore considered him self plague-proof, and James, the colored cook, were prostrated yesterday. The disease is called yellow fever, but does not yield to yellow fever or malarial fever treatment. Not a single victim has so far recovered.

The suffering has not been all physical, nor has the physical exceeded mental. Imagine a son and brother urging his mother and sister to leave him to his fate and flee for their lives. Imagine a wife urging the same thing to her husband. Picture in your mind homes of culture and refinement turned into hospitals with everything forgotten but the one all prevading, heart rending question: "Oh, my loved one, what can do for you?" and throughout the whole town nothing to be seen but faces blanched with fear and forms bowed with anguish.

OFF THE TRACK.

The Democratic County Central Committee met on Saturday, and among to that party with whose administration other business accorded the declination is associated the most brilliant epoch in other business accepted the declination of Z. T. Hundley as a candidate for representative. The reason given by Mr. Hundley for his action in withdrawing from the ticket was the fact that he had temporarily resided in Bloomington during the first part of the year 1877, and while there had good of the country. No patriotic man voted at a local election, thereby making himself ineligible to a soat in the legislature from this district, the constitution prescribing that in order to be eligible to a scat in the House the member must have resided for two years next proceeding the election within the territory contained in the district. This is simply a confession upon the part of Mr. Hundley and the Democratic committee that they do not expect their party to have a majority in the next House, for such a triffing matter as in- it is plain to be seen that they are wileligibility has not heretofore been con- ling to sacrifice Cronkrite and Etter upsidered an insurmountable objection by the Democrate when they were in power, and the ineligible individual belonged to their party. (July as recently as majority of theigeneral assembly, if they 1875, when the Haines legislature of odorous memory was in session, the question was raised of the ineligibility the business of Republicans everywhere of a Democratic member from Sangamon, who had not only lived outside of his district within two years, but in another state. The House was in the hands of the Democrats, and the carpet bagger was not molested. A PISH STORY.

The pleasing picture of the Iowa heroine, who had two pickerel harnessed and was drawn by them up and down a pond in a beautiful little boat, was the sweetest fish story ever clipped with an exchange editor's shears. But who shall say that the ingenuity of the local chronicler has got to the end of its tether and devised the sweetest possible fish story? Here is the Whitehall

Times, for instance, with a romance of the queen of the speckled beauties. A man has an artificial trout pend with at least 3,000 fish, each weighing from half a pound to two pounds, more of less. He also has a little girl, five years old, who has succeeded in training the fish so that she can go to the edge of the pond and with a handful of crumbs feed them from her chubby hand. They have learned to jump out of the water and they are extremely fond of their little mistress. One day she lost her balance, and pitched headling into the water where it was deep. She says that when she went "way down" she called lustily for help. Her cries quickly attracted her parents, and they were horrified at seeing the little girl

floating upon the surface of the pond

The father rushed to the water's edge and reached out for his pet, and as be raised her from the water a perfect

solid mass of trout was found beneath her. These faithful subjects of the little queen, as she fell, quickly gathered beneath her, and thus showed their love for their mistress by bearing up he body until aid arrived, thus preventing her from meeting a watery grave. New York Tribune.

AID FOR OUR SOUTHERN SUFFERERS.

Rev. Mr. Prestley, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, called the attention of his people yesterday to the urgent necessity for something more than the mere nassive sympathy all must feel with their fellow-citizens of the Bouth under the cry of desolation that comes up from homes being swept by the ravages of the dread destroyer; that in addition to their prayers to the Father of Mercies, to stay this fearful pestilence that walketh in darkness, and this destruction that wasteth at noonday, they should at once contribute most liberally of their means in this hour of need to the help of brethren in such a fearful extremity, and not only so, but it should come as an offering of thanksgiving: that in the Providence of God the home of this community have been, and are spared from the horror of such a scourge. To this end he announced that a collection would be taken in the church next Subbath morning.

We have since learned that the pastors. or representatives of all the churches. enter most heartily into this movement. and we are gratified in aunouncing that a collection will be taken in all the churches holding service next Sabbath for said object, and we trust the result will be in keeping with the call. In giving this notice we would add, that while it is proper that such a movement should be gin in the church, it should not end there, and suggest that such other action be taken as will secure a general testimony from this entire community of active sympathy with their Southern brethren in this time of their calamity, as well as gratitude for our own mercies.

Palatable, Powerful, Antiperiodic and Tonic. - All the necessaries of a great popular remedy are combined in Clifford's Febrifuge. As a tonic, in debilitated states of the system, this remedy stands pre-eminently at the head. Yet it is more than is usually understood by that term, for no other preparation known exercises an eradicating power over intermittent diseases at all comparable with it. As it is probable that, in the intervals of the paroxysms of these diseases a train of morbid actions is going out of our sight, so it is equally probable that this remedy produces in the same system an action equally mysterious, which supersedes that of the malady, and thus accomplishe the restoration of the patient.

A PISH STORY.

The pleasing picture of the Iowa heroine, who had two pickerel harnessed and was drawn by them up and down a pond is a beautiful little boat, was the weetest fish story ever clipped with au exchange editor's shears. But who shall say that the ingenuity of the local hronicler has got to the end of its tether and devised the sweetest possible fish story? Here is the Whitehall Times, for instance, with a romance of the queen of the speekled beauties. A man has an artificial trout pond with at least 3,000 fish, each weighing from half a pound to two pounds, more or less. He also has a little girl, five years old, who has succeeded in training the fish so that she can go to the edge of the pond and with a handful of crumbs feed them from her chubby hand. They have learned to jump out of the water and snatch worms from her fingers, and they are extremely fond of their little mistress. One day she lost her balance, and pitched headlong into the water where it was deep. She says that when she went "way down" she called lustily for help. Her ories quickly attracted her parents, and they were horrified at seeing the little girl floating upon the surface of the pond The father rushed to the water's edge and reached out for his pet, and as be raised her from the water a perfect solid mass of trout was found beneath her. These faithful subjects of the little queen, as she fell, quickly gathered beneath her, and thus showed their love for their mistress by bearing up he body until aid arrived, thus preventing her from meeting a watery grave.
